

Airble Expands Booking Widget to Include Scheduled Flights

Vancouver, March 5th, 2026: Airble, the Vancouver-based retail-direct marketplace and aviation technology company specializing in private jet charter, empty leg and air tour bookings, introduced a new booking widget in summer 2025. The plug-in enables air operator partners to integrate Airble's marketplace functionality directly into their own websites, while maintaining a brand-neutral interface.

In February 2026, Airble expanded the booking widget's capabilities with a newly added feature: real-time scheduled flight bookings, opening access to an additional market segment. Mississippi Airways is the first official partner to offer scheduled flights through the booking widget, alongside charter options and empty leg deals.

According to Airble CEO Saeed Golzar, the website widget enables clients "to seamlessly browse pricing and select the flight that best meets their needs – while also streamlining the company's booking and payment processes."

More information about the booking widget and how air operators can list their fleet, set charter and scheduled flight pricing and receive direct booking requests via their own websites, can be found at Private Flight Booking Widget - Charter Aviation Simplified or via info@airble.com.
